Wiki Contributors

This chapter serves as a valuable resource for understanding and adhering to our best content guidelines and standards.

- Rules / Guidelines

    - Rules for Wiki Editors

    - Quality Guidelines

    - Requesting "Editor" Access

Rules / Guidelines

Please read, understand and follow these rules before contributing content to the Wiki.

Rules for Wiki Editors

Rules for Wiki Editors

These rules are important for maintaining the integrity of our wiki. They serve as a foundation for all contributors to ensure the quality and legality of the content. Failure to adhere to these rules will result in consequences.

1. No self-promotion: This wiki is not a platform for self-promotion. Do not use it to advertise your mods, YouTube channel, or any personal endeavors. This rule will be strictly enforced.

2. Do not post copyrighted material: Posting copyrighted material, including images or videos, is strictly prohibited. Doing so places this website and its owners at legal risk. Any user found posting copyrighted material will have their editing privileges immediately and permanently revoked.

3. Do not post other people's content: Do not post content created by others without proper authorisation. Verification of permission is impossible, so refrain from using someone else's work.

4. Do not spam or post low-quality material: Think of this as an encyclopedia or a knowledge base for future modders. Prioritise quality in your contributions. Proofread your content and avoid submitting low-quality material to the best of your ability.

5. Maintain a professional tone in all contributions: Avoid swearing, slang, or any form of vulgar or offensive content. This rule is non-negotiable.

6. All original content published on this wiki is considered public domain: By contributing, you release your work to the public domain. This allows other contributors to revise, edit, or rework the content as needed.

7. No Discrimination: Discriminatory content, including but not limited to racism, sexism, or any form of prejudice, will not be tolerated.

8. Be Respectful and Constructive:
   Maintain a respectful attitude when engaging with other contributors. Constructive criticism is encouraged, but personal attacks or harassment will not be tolerated.

9. Avoid Misleading Information:
   Ensure that the information you provide is accurate and reliable. Misleading or false information is detrimental to the integrity of the wiki.

10. Use Proper Citations:
    When referencing external sources, provide proper citations to give credit to the original creators and uphold academic standards.

11. Follow Legal Guidelines:
    Adhere to all relevant legal guidelines and regulations, including intellectual property and privacy laws.

12. No Malicious Intent:
    Contributions with malicious intent, including harmful scripts or content, will be not tolerated.

13. Keep Topics Relevant:
    Stick to topics related to wrestling game modding and avoid unrelated subjects.

14. Report Violations:
    If you encounter a violation of these rules, report it promptly to the moderators for appropriate action.

15. Continual Improvement:
    This rulebook is subject to updates and refinements for the betterment of the wiki. Contributors are encouraged to provide feedback and suggestions for rule enhancements.

Quality Guidelines

In order to ensure high quality content, any submissions not meeting these criteria may be edited or removed.

Quality Guidelines

If you haven't already, please first read the Rules for Wiki Editors as these are very important, and strictly enforced. By contrast, these "guidelines" are not enforced as strictly, but still recommended to follow whenever possible.

1. Approach this wiki as an encyclopedia or knowledgebase: Our primary objective is to capture and share knowledge, making it more accessible and preserving it for the future. Articles should be crafted with this objective at the forefront.

2. Articles should maintain a neutral point of view: Avoid using emotionally-charged language or expressing subjective opinions. To gauge your grasp of neutrality, consider taking the Wikipedia Neutrality Quiz as a helpful exercise.

3. Refrain from writing in the first-person perspective: Recognise that wiki articles, in most cases, are not attributed to individual authors and may undergo edits by multiple contributors. Consequently, avoid personal pronouns such as "I," "me," or phrases like "in my opinion."

4. Avoid duplicate content: Prior to creating new content, employ the search feature to determine whether the topic has been previously covered. Whenever feasible, enhance existing content rather than initiating a new page on the same subject.

5. Conduct comprehensive proofreading of your content before publication: Scrutinise for common errors, including typos, grammatical inconsistencies, and formatting irregularities. Ensure that the overall tone of the content remains polished.

6. Strive to provide comprehensive and elucidating information in your contributions: Avoid vague or ambiguous content, and instead, offer detailed explanations and clarifications to enhance the understanding of the subject matter.

By following these guidelines diligently, we collectively contribute to the creation of a reputable and invaluable resource for the modding community.

Requesting "Editor" Access

Please send a message to Grix#2942 or SixZzshOt RipZz#9140 on Discord to have an account made for you. For now, all editor accounts need to be manually approved by a site administrator.

We encourage individuals with an understanding of modding Pro Wrestling video games to contribute their knowledge and expertise to our wiki. Your insights are a valuable addition to our community.

To ensure that your contributions align with our quality standards, we recommend reviewing our " Rules for Wiki Editors" and "Quality Guidelines." These resources provide essential guidance on maintaining accuracy within our wiki. We eagerly anticipate your participation as a respected content editor.